
UK Corporate M&A: 2020 into 2021

Contents

2020 was an unprecedented year of new challenges and opportunities.

When the pandemic struck, our team adapted quickly to support all of our clients, drawing on our extensive experience of volatile conditions. We have been delighted to advise a large number of high-profile clients on cutting-edge deals, as well as providing valuable strategic insight to a broad range of investors and companies in the London market.

We are excited about 2021 and have a number of predictions as to transaction flows, market developments and techniques which we expect to see in the coming months.

In the last quarter of 2020, we hosted a series of webinars with leading experts considering issues including energy transition, cyber security, sustainability, digital transformation, and much more!

Here are some highlights of 2020 and our predictions for 2021.

Introducing new partner Margot Lindsay

We are delighted to announce that Margot Lindsay has been promoted to partner.

Margot specialises in international and domestic private and public mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures and general corporate advisory matters for listed companies, private companies, financial sponsors and international corporates. She has a broad experience across a range of industries, with particular experience in healthcare, energy, mining and metals, consumer products and infrastructure.

Patrick Sarch, Co-head of the Corporate M&A practice, says: "Since joining the firm two years ago, Margot has become a key member of our team. She is a standout M&A lawyer and a great asset to the firm."

Commenting on her promotion, Margot says: "I'm excited to be starting the next phase of my career at White & Case, especially at such a pivotal time for the London Corporate M&A practice. Last year saw the team work on a number of ground-breaking deals and I'm looking forward to seeing what the future brings."
