1L Intellectual Property Litigation Workshop

White & Case – Overview of our Firm

With 45 offices in 31 countries, White & Case's longstanding presence in the global legal market is unmatched, ensuring that our lawyers work on high-profile and cutting-edge matters and deals. We value the individual, while fostering a culture of teamwork among more than 2,200 lawyers worldwide through an inclusive approach to building relationships and mentoring.

Our Intellectual Property lawyers deliver decades of experience and expertise to clients worldwide. For our 1L Intellectual Property Workshop, we are looking for globally-minded law students with the same passion for life sciences and technology that we have and the same desire to serve clients on complex cross-border matters around the world.

Workshop description

The White & Case 1L IP Litigation Workshop is a truly unique opportunity to gain an early insight into Big Law and the skills needed for success. This one-day immersion program will be held in the New York office*, where you will discover what it's like to practice intellectual property litigation at White & Case through panels, presentations and networking events.

You will have the opportunity to:

- Meet lawyers at different levels from various US offices and hear about their career paths into IP practice
- Take part in an interactive training and group sessions
- Collaborate on a case study with IP lawyers
- Network with your peers during a social event

This program will allow you to discover what makes White & Case a unique and preeminent global law firm.

The Firm will cover the cost of airfare and hotels for those traveling for the program.

Selection process—a successful candidate will possess:

- A proven desire to pursue a career in IP litigation at a global law firm
- A technical background or STEM degree
- Strong academic credentials
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Ability to function as an effective and collegial team member
- Leadership abilities
