Global Content Regulations – how we can help

We serve as global content regulation advisory, compliance, and product counsel for multiple online platforms and other intermediary service providers. Our team advises legal, policy, product, engineering, marketing, sales, and communications teams from the time draft laws and regulations are proposed, through when they are interpreted by courts and regulators – and everything in between. Our team has counseled tech clients on more than 30 different content regulation laws and regulations in the past 12 months alone, including extensively advising on Europe's Digital Services Act.

Our tech clients value our ability to efficiently monitor, track, and advise on developments in overlapping legal regimes, on a global scale. We partner with our clients to develop tailored, commercial, and risk-based global compliance strategies, leveraging our unparalleled experience in: (i) efficiently tracking, monitoring, and analyzing laws/draft laws across the world; (ii) developing standardized processes and methodologies to rank priorities; and (iii) standardizing cross-practice area legal analyses of laws/draft laws. We also work with clients to leverage this analysis in the development and launch of new products and risk mitigations.
