Practice Experience

Jack Pace is a litigator and trusted advisor well known to the Firm's clients for his energy, creativity, and ability to solve tough problems.

He is a core member of White & Case's leading global antitrust litigation practice, which has been ranked by Legal 500 in Tier 1 and Chambers USA in Band 1 for civil litigation/class actions and cartel matters, respectively, and has won the Competition Group of the Year award from Law360 more than any other firm has, an unprecedented seven times. The Firm's antitrust practice also has been named as one of the Global Competition Review's "Global Elite."

Jack has achieved major victories in many complex litigation matters, including jury verdicts (in antitrust, unfair competition, and RICO cases), appellate victories (GameStop/"meme stock" litigation, Asacol antitrust litigation, Doryx antitrust litigation, GM seeds antitrust litigation), dismissals of antitrust claims on the pleadings and at summary judgment (GameStop/"meme stock" litigation, numerous "reverse payment" and "product hopping" cases, Black v. JP Morgan Chase, VantageScore antitrust litigation, auto repair consumer protection litigation), and groundbreaking defeats of class certification (Asacol antitrust litigation, GM seeds antitrust litigation, court reporting unfair competition litigation).

Jack successfully has represented clients in trials, arbitrations, mediations, and other litigation settings against private parties, federal prosecutors, and state attorneys general. He also has represented many leading global companies in litigation at the cutting edge of antitrust and intellectual property law.

External accolades. Jack has been recognized as a leading litigator and antitrust lawyer by several publications. Jack is ranked in Chambers (where clients reported that "Jack excels in public speaking and court performance" and "is responsive, strategic and sees the big picture"), in Legal 500 US as one of twenty "Leading Partners" ("the strongest partners in their field") in the United States in the Civil Litigation/Class Actions category, and in Who's Who Legal/Lexology as a Future Leader in the Competition category (where clients described Jack as a "great strategist"). Jack is also a two-time "MVP" in Law360, winning the award in the Life Sciences category 2015 and in the Competition category in 2011. Jack also was named a "Rising Star Under Age 40" among US competition lawyers by Law360 in 2013 and a "Rising Star" among all lawyers in New York City by the New York Law Journal in 2013.

Industries. Jack works with clients across a broad range of industries, including technology, e-commerce, higher education, pharmaceuticals, financial services, fintech, publishing, agriculture, energy, and sports leagues.

Firm leadership roles. Jack has served in a variety of leadership roles at the Firm, including most recently as Head of the Competition Section for the Firm's Americas Region (2018–2022) and Executive Partner of the Firm's New York Office (2013–2018).

Pro bono. In addition to his client practice, Jack serves as Practice Leader of the Firm's leading Global Pro Bono Practice. He has done extensive work on behalf of the Firm's pro bono clients, in cases involving domestic violence, criminal appeals, and special education. He also serves on the Board of Directors of Reach Out and Read of Greater New York, a not-for-profit organization focused on school readiness and early literacy.

Jack is an associate editor of Antitrust Magazine and regularly publishes articles on antitrust law, class certification, and other subjects.

Representative cases include the following:

Litigation challenging joint ventures and other collaborations

- Successfully has represented clients in litigation, including class actions, and government investigations into JVs and other collaborations in the technology, financial services, pharmaceutical, medical technology, and sports industries.
- Successfully defended Boston Scientific Corporation in antitrust and False Claims Act litigation regarding challenges to licensing and marketing agreements relating to the sale of prostate cancer treatments.
- Successfully defended Allergan in nationwide antitrust class action litigation challenging a joint venture regarding the sale of Botox® Cosmetic and other injectable aesthetic treatments.
- Regularly counsels clients on the formation of research and marketing collaborations, joint ventures, and startups.
- Represented a coalition of economists and university professors submitting an amicus brief to the United States Supreme Court on the proper application of the antitrust laws in the litigation over compensation for NCAA student-athletes.

Antitrust and innovation

- Successfully defended Allergan in nationwide antitrust class action litigation regarding the company's leading Botox® Cosmetic product. The plaintiffs sought to prevent competition by blocking an exclusive license agreement that would create new competition in the sale of injectable neurotoxins in the United States.
- Regularly advises tech, biotech, and pharmaceutical clients on marketing programs and product launches to help them protect their innovation.
- Successfully defended several leading pharmaceutical and medical device manufacturers against antitrust challenges to the prosecution and enforcement of intellectual property rights.
- Successfully defended several leading manufacturers against antitrust challenges to the launch of new products.
- In a noteworthy example, represented Allergan/Warner Chilcott in litigation brought by competitor Mylan, challenging Warner Chilcott's transition to new versions of its Doryx acne treatment. Jack and the White & Case team obtained dismissal of all of the plaintiff's claims on summary judgment, representing the first-ever victory for a defendant on a full evidentiary record in a so-called pharmaceutical "product hopping" litigation. The Third Circuit Court Appeals affirmed the client's victory, creating the first appellate precedent in favor of a defendant in a "product hopping" case.

Fintech

- Successfully defended Apex Clearing Corporation in antitrust, securities law, and common law tort challenges relating to the so-called "January 2021 Short Squeeze" in the trading of GameStop and other "meme stocks." The District Court for the Southern District of Florida dismissed all claims against Apex with prejudice, and the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Apex's victory on appeal.
- Successfully represented fintech firms in FINRA and other arbitrations regarding securities trading, clearing firm operations, and credit scoring services.
- Advising various financial services, fintech, and private equity firms on antitrust compliance, joint ventures, and new service offerings.

Class action defense

- Successfully has represented defendants from a variety of industries facing class actions and achieved precedent-setting victories in defeating class certification, including in the Asacol Antitrust Litigation (1st Circuit), the GM Seeds Antitrust Litigation (8th Circuit), and the Loestrin Indirect Purchaser Antitrust Litigation (1st Circuit).

Antitrust and labor markets

- Representing a leading global information company in class action litigation regarding alleged labor market effects of collaborations.
- Regularly advises clients on employment policies in connection with litigation/regulatory risk, compliance programs, and merger review.

Antitrust challenges to pharmaceutical settlement agreements and IP enforcement

- National trial counsel for several leading pharmaceutical manufacturers (including AbbVie, Boehringer Ingelheim, Boston Scientific, Hikma, and Pfizer) in antitrust challenges to settlement agreements and efforts to enforce intellectual property rights. Among other things, Jack has played a leading role in the class certification and economic analyses involved in these cases.

Consolidated price-fixing class actions

- Successfully defended a leading global potash supplier in consolidated class action litigation involving claims under antitrust and unfair competition laws.

- Successfully defended clients in a variety of sectors, including information services, health care, commodities, and automotive manufacturing in antitrust lawsuits challenging joint conduct under the antitrust laws.

FDA regulatory approval of innovative pharmaceutical products

- Successfully defended a leading global pharmaceutical manufacturer in preliminary injunction proceedings that challenged Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval of a biosimilar drug.

Credit data antitrust, consumer protection, and trademark litigation

- Representing Experian, Jack and his colleagues obtained a jury verdict on all claims brought by Fair Isaac Corporation in an action concerning allegations of unfair competition and trademark infringement in the sale of credit risk scoring services. The jury also found in favor of Experian on its counterclaim that the plaintiff had committed fraud on the US Patent and Trademark Office in obtaining its registration for the trademark-in-suit. Jack and his colleagues also obtained dismissal of all antitrust and false advertising claims on summary judgment. The trial victory and summary judgment victory were upheld by the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals.
- In a separate case brought by a proposed nationwide class of purchasers, Jack and his colleagues obtained dismissal of all claims asserting antitrust violations against Experian and various leading financial institutions.

Antitrust / intellectual property litigation

- Successfully represented several major pharmaceutical manufacturers in monopolization litigation involving allegations of fraud on the United States Patent and Trademark Office and sham litigation.

Defense against deceptive and unfair trade practice claims

- Represented a legal services support company in class action litigation asserting claims under state deceptive and unfair trade practice laws. Jack and his colleagues obtained denial of the class certification motion and dismissal of all claims against our client.

Employment class action litigation

- Represented a leading pharmaceutical company in putative class actions involving claims under Title VII and the wage and hour laws, respectively. Obtained the dismissal of all claims against our clients in both matters on grounds of corporate separateness and plaintiffs' failure to justify piercing the corporate veil.

RICO litigation

- Represented a coalition of insurance companies in a 10-week jury trial involving RICO and fraud claims. Member of the trial team that obtained the first jury verdict against the tobacco companies by a third-party payer.
